

Two Senate Freshmen Sit On Opposite Sides

Washington, Dec. 6, (AP)—Two freshmen who may be heard from in the future are coming here in January to sit on opposite sides of the political dividing line in the Senate.

They are William Benton of Connecticut and Harry Darby of Kansas.

Benton, a political independent, said he will sit with and vote with the Democrats. He replaces Republican Senator Raymond Baldwin, who resigned to take a state court post.

Darby, Republican national committeeman for Kansas, succeeds the late Republican Senator Clyde Reed.

Ahead of their arrival, Benton and Darby appointments have started politicians talking about the political futures of the comparatively young men who will be sitting in Congress for the first time. Benton is 49 and Darby 54.

Neither has ever been elected to public office, but both have been in the political turmoil to the point where some of their friends think they may have a future in national service.

For instance, Senator Butler (R-Neb) told a reporter it wouldn't be too difficult for him to visualize Darby as a vice presidential possibility in 1952.

Benton's appointment by his old friend Gov. Chester Bowles was hailed by Democratic National Chairman William M. Boyle Jr., as one that will serve "the best interests of the liberal, progressive policies of the Democratic administration."

Benton already has met some of his new senatorial colleagues from across the table, when he served as assistant secretary of state for public affairs from September, 1945, until September, 1947.

Some of these same colleagues took him over the jumps for his sponsorship of the state department's "Voice of America" radio broadcasts to foreign countries.

Despite the controversy in Congress, however, Benton won approval of the "voice" as a part of the state department's permanent program.

He learned at first hand something about how Congress works—information likely to prove valuable to him in his new role.

Havana To Miami Alien Smuggling Racket Broken Up

Washington, Dec. 6, (AP)—The justice department reported today it has cracked a Havana-Miami alien-smuggling operation and is rounding up 26 aliens slipped into this country since September.

Attorney General McGrath announced the arrest of two Grand Rapids, Mich., men in Miami. They are accused of flying the aliens into this country.

The accused men are Gaylord Saxton and Charles Cramton, both 26.

In addition, McGrath said, three of the aliens have been picked up in New York City. He added that the justice department hopes to have the others in custody shortly.

Saxton and Cramton were arrested at a Miami rooming house yesterday and charged with alien smuggling.

Conviction would carry a possible penalty of five years in prison plus $2,000 fine for each alien illegally brought in.

Coal Contracts Up For Renewal; Lewis Is Absent

New York, Dec. 6, (AP)—Negotiations for a new hard coal (anthracite) contract gets under way here today but there is no certainty that John L. Lewis will be present.

Aides of the United Mine Workers president here and in Washington said they did not know whether he would appear himself or leave the preliminary conferences in charge of a union committee.

The committee is headed by Thomas Kennedy, UMW vice-president, who arrived in New York last night.

The talks will cover 80,000 miners in the hard coal region of northwestern Pennsylvania. The conferences possibly may set a pattern for the 400,000 workers in the soft (bituminous) coal industry.

It is more likely however, that the result will be exactly the reverse.

No Major Break

The anthracite operators traditionally have followed the lead of the soft coal operators.

Lewis' current battle with the soft coal operators reportedly centers around the miners' welfare funds, financed by royalties on coal dug, and on a demand for a pay boost.

The nation's precarious coal production—geared down and uncertain—continued today in both hard and soft coal pits.

Orders from Lewis sent the 450,000 hard and soft coal miners into the pits yesterday on a three-day-week schedule.

There was no indication of a major break, however, in the dispute in the hard and soft coal fields that began six months ago.

Southern soft coal producers said yesterday in Washington that they were standing firm against any contract which would give Lewis the power to dictate how the mines are to be used.

Mine shutdowns have been considered by the southern producers.

Also talked of was an application for a court injunction to prevent Lewis from putting the three-day-week in effect. These two suggestions were laid on the shelf, for the time being at least.

European Countries May Lose 30 Million In Mixup With ECA

Washington, Dec. 6, (AP)—Failure to ship at least 50 per cent of certain Marshall Plan goods on American owned ships may cost seven Western European countries as much as $30,000,000.

This was revealed following two days of conferences between top officials of the Economic Cooperation Administration (ECA) and representatives of the nations concerned.

Involved are Great Britain, France, the Netherlands, Belgium-Luxembourg, Sweden, Ireland and Denmark.

It appeared that the countries might have to dig into their dollar reserves to make heavy refunds to the United States for ocean freight costs on recovery shipments.

Trail Of Uranium To Russia Linked With Higher-Ups

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Washington, Dec. 6, (AP)—The House Un-American Activities committee eyed former vice president Henry A. Wallace and many others today in a suddenly revived hunt for people who pushed wartime uranium shipments to Russia.

Wallace commented that a statement that he was involved is false, and a part of "an unremitting effort to tarnish the name of Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Doctors Fight Social Medicine

Physicians Pay Dues For AMA Campaign

By FRANK CAREY
Washington, Dec. 6, (AP)—Most of the nation's doctors today faced the prospect of a regular "dues" payment—just like a union or fraternal organization—to fight what the American Medical Association terms "socialized medicine."

The House of Delegates, policy-making body of the AMA arranged hearings on a proposal for the "mechanics" of such a system. Under it, some 150,000 of the country's doctors would be regularly billed for payments to the organization's treasury. The House of Delegates is having a meeting here this week.

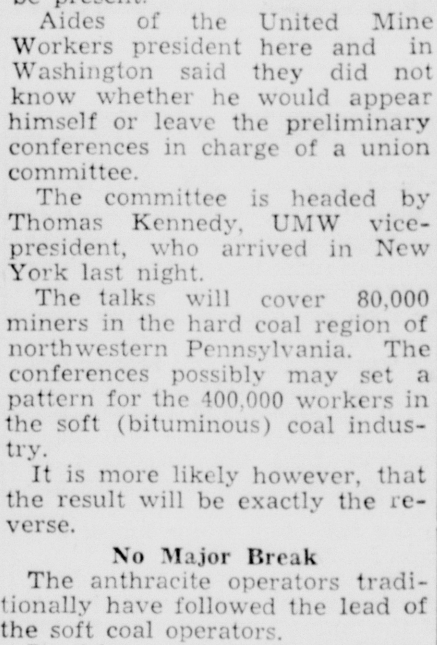

Up to now, AMA officials say, the organization's funds have been limited. Its revenue came from subscriptions to its various publications, from advertising therein, and from payments of a $25 assessment levied on the membership to back an "educational" program among the American people against federalized compulsory sickness insurance.

At last June's annual meeting of the AMA, the House of Delegates approved a proposal to introduce a system of dues-payment, and referred it to the board of trustees to work out a proposal for details.

Dr. Francis Borzell, of Philadelphia, speaker of the House of Delegates, told a reporter such a system would provide "funds to carry on an educational campaign to acquaint the American people with our concept of good medical practice."

Deadline Near For U. S. Consul To Quit Mukden

Washington Awaits Action Of Reds

Washington, Dec. 6, (AP)—Angus Ward reported today that he and his American consulate staff have arranged to leave Mukden at 3:45 a. m. Wednesday (2:45 p. m. EST today).

By EDWARD E. BOMAR

Washington, Dec. 6, (AP)—The deadline for the departure of Consul General Angus Ward and his staff from Mukden drew near today.

The passing hours found the state department keyed up for word whether the Chinese Communists have at last let them start home.

The group of 18 American officials and their families were under Communist orders to quit the Manchurian capital by 7 p. m. EST tonight (8 a. m. Wednesday Mukden time). All have been virtual prisoners for more than a year. Ward and four of his aides were recently jailed for a month.

U. S. Army circles in Tokyo reported that a partially garbled message from Ward yesterday said he himself did not know whether he would leave Mukden last night or today. Communication lines to Mukden are roundabout and undependable, and there were no details.

Final Chores Rushed

Lacking a specific schedule, state department officials had expected Ward to put off the departure for the North China port of Tientsin until the last available train. They figured he would need all the time he could get to wind up the affairs of the consulate general.

Ward was handed the expulsion order only last Friday and since has had to dispose of final chores under difficulties, including paying off his Chinese staff. From Tientsin the U. S. merchant ship Lakeland victory is expected to take out the entire consulate group.

Meantime Li Chung-Jen, the Chinese Nationalist's acting president, is en route to the United States on a visit which may have a direct bearing on future American relations with the tottering Nationalist regime.

Shah Passes Hollywood By

Young Ruler Prefers Nuts And Bolts

By HOWARD C. HEYN

Los Angeles, Dec. 6, (AP)—Perhaps a cat can look at a king, but Hollywood got no such chance with the Shah of Iran.

The Shah declined to visit a movie studio yesterday.

Instead he eagerly inspected nuts, bolts and crankshafts at an aircraft factory.

His failure to watch Hollywood at work was unique. Even the great among visitors usually want to see a star or meet the stars.

Now, for once, filmdom knows what it's like to be passed by.

Advisers to the 30-year-old Mohammad Reza Shah Pahlavi, explained, with diplomatic care, that his imperial majesty's regretful refusal doesn't mean he isn't interested in motion pictures.

On the contrary. But, they said, throughout his current American tour the Shah has consistently declined all unscheduled invitations. He has had scores of these and to accept an invitation to a studio the spokesmen said, might offend some of those he had disappointed.

State department attaches accompanying the monarch said he had received quite a few such invitations here, although he had not been "overwhelmed."

Among these, it was understood, was one from Jack Benny, who wanted him to appear on his broadcast Sunday.

Situation Gets Worse In China; Nationalists Clamoring For Chiang

By SPENCER MOOSA

Chengtu, Dec. 6, (AP)—Clamor for Chiang Kai-shek to resume presidency of Nationalist China became noisier today as the Reds pushed within 90 miles of Chengtu.

(From Hong Kong, Associated Press correspondent Wayne Richardson radioed that President Li Tsung-jen ordered Nationalist officials in Chengtu to carry on—under his orders, Li, flying to the United States for treatment of a stomach ailment, said he would "telegraph" instructions and would return within a month.)

Meantime, the war situation was worsening. One Red force, striking along the main highway from recently deserted Chungking, approached Neichiang, a ferry crossing 90 miles southeast of Chengtu.

Another thrust along a more northerly highway towards Suining, 90 miles east of Chengtu.

Travelers said inhabitants of towns and villages in the path of the Red drive were in a ferment of excitement and fear. They elaborated:

Residents were moving in every direction for safety.

Some were fleeing into the countryside from towns.

Kalamazoo Killings Go On Record As Murder And Suicide

Kalamazoo, Mich., Dec. 6, (AP)—Police today wrote off as murder and suicide the case of a jealous bartender who shot his estranged wife and then killed himself.

The body of Edward Patenode, 65, was found yesterday afternoon in a vacant lot near the home of his daughter, to whom he had just confessed the slaying of his second wife, Ethel, 50.

The daughter, Mrs. Mary Fleagal, listened as her father sobbingly told her how he shot her stepmother. When she called police, he ran outside and shot himself with the last bullet in his revolver.

Mrs. Fleagal said her father told of his wife saying she had had affairs with five other men since their marriage in 1945, and dared him to shoot her.

Walkout Continues On Oak Ridge Project

Oak Ridge, Tenn., Dec. 6, (AP)—A walkout of about 250 AEC steamfitters, truck drivers and operational engineers continued today at the new $66,000,000 Gaseous Diffusion plant project.

The big plant is being built to increase production of uranium-235 for atomic bombs.

It was understood the workers, employees of Maxon Construction Co., protested the use of non-union labor in a short natural gas pipeline being run into the K-29 area by the Oman Construction Co., of Nashville.

Unity Sought By Democrats At $5 A Plate

Detroit, Dec. 6, (AP)—The Democrats' "Anniversary Victory Dinner" last night was an enthusiastic affair, from almost any standpoint. For the $5-a-plate baked ham and sweet potato dinner the ballroom of the Book-Cadillac hotel was packed.

Neutral observers admitted that the claim of 800 sold tickets was probably correct.

Governor Williams, whose election victory the party memorialized, made a ringing plea for unity among the Democrats and was warmly applauded.

National Democratic Chairman William M. Boyle was a guest of honor.

Still and all, the question of unity was a question.

For the much divided Democrats were evidently yet divided.

In the course of the Wassall a number of dignitaries, at the invitation of toastmaster David Martin, a liquor commissioner, got up to take bows.

Just a bow, that was all.

Fitz Sounds Off
Until Martin called on National Committeeman George S. Fitzgerald.

It was then the even tenor of the dinner became something else.

With the announcement "I don't let this occasion go by with just a bow," the bulky Fitzgerald virtually charged at and seized the microphone.

Then he warned eloquently against "over-confidence" and "mistakes" and touched on a tender spot, thusly:

"There was one mistake made right here in Detroit last November."

The reference could hardly have been to anything else than one Democratic faction's declared support of George Edwards in the non-Partisan Detroit mayoralty fight.

Edwards was soundly defeated by Albert E. Cobb.

After a short time Fitzgerald stomped back to his seat.

State Chairman Hicks G. Griffiths remained discreetly silent. Some guests applauded. Others did not.

School Principal Shoots Three At Mt. Vernon, Wash.

Mt. Vernon, Wash., Dec. 6, (AP)—A grade school principal shot and killed his attractive ex-wife and her fiancé, then fatally wounded himself yesterday in the partly furnished bungalow the couple was preparing for their forthcoming marriage.

The victims were Mrs. Betty Buchanan Trout, 27; William A. O'Loane, 24, a flying instructor and Mrs. Trout's fiancé; and John W. Trout, 32, principal at Rockport grammar school, 40 miles up the Skagit river from here.

Police Chief Don Landreth ascribed the shooting to Trout's inability to effect a reconciliation with his former wife. They had been divorced in June, 1948.

The bodies were discovered by L. F. Buchanan, Mrs. Trout's father.

He said he and his wife returned from a shopping trip to their home next door to the cottage. Mrs. Trout's son, Terry, 3, was in the living room. "Mommy go bang-bang," the terror-stricken youngster cried.

O'Loane and Mrs. Trout were to have been married Jan. 9, 1950.

Lindbergh To Receive Award For Service To Aviation In U. S. A.

Washington, Dec. 6, (AP)—Charles A. Lindbergh will get an award this month for "significant public service of enduring value to aviation in the United States."

The National Aeronautics association said Lindbergh will get the Wright Brothers Memorial trophy at a dinner December 17 sponsored by the Aero Club of Washington.

He was picked for the honor by a group of aviation leaders who listed his achievements from the time he crossed the Atlantic in "The Spirit of St. Louis," through his service to the Air Force in World War II, and up to his present secret activity as a special consultant to the air force chief of staff.

Allies Accused Of Promoting Old Militarism

Bonn Regime Needs Civilian Manpower

By BRACK CURRY

Frankfurt, Germany, Dec. 6, (AP)—The west German press accused the western powers today of trying to revive German militarism with a "cannon fodder" army.

The newspapers claimed the west wants an army of German "mercenaries" as a bulwark against the Russians.

But nobody has asked the Germans whether they want an army, the newspapers said, contending that the German people are overwhelmingly opposed to German rearmament.

Although western allied officials have announced publicly there are no present plans for rebuilding a German army, persistent reports have circulated that western military leaders favor such a step.

Reconstruction Comes First

Yesterday a spokesman for west German chancellor (premier) Konrad Adenauer said the Bonn government would agree under certain circumstances to form an army. But the spokesman declared the west German republic was not taking the initiative in proposing such a military move.

The spokesman said Adenauer was "fundamentally" against Ger-

Advisors Swim With President

Facilities Crowded At Florida Resort

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

Key West, Fla., Dec. 6, (AP)—Presidential advisors came thick and fast today to swim with President Truman and help him draft all-important messages to Congress.

They left the chief executive with a personal housing problem. And no Navy man under the rank of captain felt secure in his berth as bunks were provided for the incoming guests.

The overflow spread to the presidential yacht USS Williamsburg anchored near the temporary "White House" at this naval submarine base, and to "quarters L," another residence of this naval submarine station.

All thought of feeding all of them at the president's quarters was abandoned and each had a different place to chow.

The Gulf, where the president takes his daily swim, seemed big enough to accommodate everybody, and the beach afforded plenty of room for the volley ballers and sun bathers.

They drove over to the submarine base to join in the vacation merriment. They are here to help the president with his "State of the Union" message which he will deliver to Congress in January, as well as with the budget and economic message which will follow it.

Mrs. Truman and Margaret are moving out tomorrow from the bulging White House. Margaret is going to New York to continue her voice studies. Mrs. Truman is returning to Washington.

Navigation To Close Dec. 11

Last Ore Carrier Scheduled Here

The 1949 navigation season is drawing to its belated close with the last ore carrier scheduled to arrive at Escanaba Dec. 11, it was reported today by Lee McMillan, C&NW ore dock agent.

All of the ore the docks will receive from the mines this season is now on hand. In a revised schedule the steamer A. E. Heekin is due at Escanaba Dec. 8, and the last boat will be the C. C. Conway on Dec. 11.

It will be the latest closing in many years, with the previous record late Dec. 8 during the early war year of 1942. Last year the docks closed Nov. 30.

The Coast Guard cutter Hollyhock has already completed the removal of most buoys and other navigation aids in the north end of Green Bay. Eleven large buoys and eight smaller ones have been brought to the Reiss dock in Escanaba for winter storage.

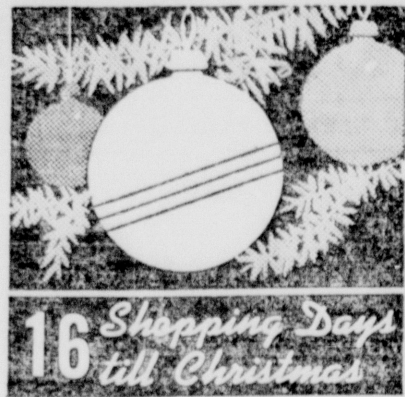

Minneapolis Shovel Lightships 12 miles south of Escanaba, previously scheduled to close Dec. 5, will continue in commission until navigation ends.

Deceived by the six-week mine and steel strike, ore shipments from the Upper Great Lakes ports were more than six million tons under last year, the Lake Superior Iron Ore association reported today.

The total declined to 1,103,167 gross tons last month from 1,574,813 tons in October. The steel strike, which started Oct. 1 and was ended by scattered settlements in the first half of November, caused the small tonnages.

Cumulative total of 1949 ore shipments to Dec. 1 was 69,385,448 tons, a drop of 13,050,825 from the 1948 season to Dec. 1, the association reported.

Only small lots of ore moved early this month will be added to the Dec. 1 cargo totals before the winter freeze halts all activity. Stockpiles on docks and at furnaces are as large as last year's.

Deputy Changes Mind; No Criminal Intent By Thompson Officers

Manistique — Deputy Attorney General Graydon Withey has informed Prosecuting Attorney Wm. J. Sheahan that acts of misconduct charged against Supervisor Floyd Sample and Former Clerk Lloyd Fragale of Thompson township were the result of ignorance rather than criminal intent on the part of the accused officials. The assistant attorney general's opinion was contained in a letter forwarded to Sheahan. Copies of the letter also were sent to Rev. John Safran and to Don Johnston, of the Thompson Township Better Government League.

Under date of June 23, Deputy Attorney General Withey, acting for Attorney General Roth, informed Prosecuting Attorney Sheahan that an audit of township records by the state auditor general's office disclosed numerous irregularities in the financial transactions of the township board. At that time, Deputy Attorney General Withey directed Prosecuting Attorney Sheahan to institute proper proceedings against members of the township board for receiving unauthorized payments of township funds.

Specifically, the township officials and others were charged with receiving unauthorized payments of township funds totaling $1800. The report also cited unauthorized expenditures of $1400 for repairing the township hall. Other irregularities included unauthorized expenditures for funeral wreaths for township residents and underwriting the cost of the township picnic.

As a result of publication of a demand by the Thompson Township Better Government League to Prosecutor Sheahan for legal action against the accused Thompson officials, the Escanaba Daily Press was named defendant by Sheahan in a $20,000 libel action. The suit is still pending.

Installing Tow In Porcupines

Winter Sports Area Will Open Jan. 8

Installation of a gasoline motor and other equipment to operate the ski tow at the new Porcupine Mountains winter sports area is being made by a state conservation department crew this week. Construction of a large T-shaped lodge has been completed and windows are now being put in. The main lounge of the lodge is 55 by 23 feet. The other portion of the lodge, which will house the ski shop, workroom, ski storage and first aid rooms, and concessions, is 40 by 24 feet. The rope tow will be 2800 feet long. Three ski runs are now ready for the formal opening to be held about Jan. 8.

About twenty-five prison trustees are employed in the development of the skiing area. The expert ski run is 2800 feet long and a relief or altitude of 565 feet. The intermediate is 2800 and 350, while the open slope for novices is 1900 and 350.

The Porcupine Mountains state park is expected to be the outstanding winter sports area in the Middle West when fully developed.

Mother Fidelis Rites At St. John's In Milwaukee

Milwaukee — Funeral services for Mother Mary Fidelis, commissary general of the School Sisters of Notre Dame in America, were held last Tuesday morning at St. John's cathedral. His Excellency, Archbishop Riley presided at the pontifical requiem Mass offered by Bishop Albert G. Meyer of Superior. Auxiliary Bishop John Grollinger of Green Bay diocese preached the sermon.

Mother Fidelis, the sixth successor of Mother Caroline, foundress of the Notre Dame nuns in the United States, had been ill with cancer for the past two years. Her sickness had not prevented her from actively directing the affairs of the community numbering more than 6,000 sisters.

Her influence was felt in the 437 schools in which the Sisters teach upwards of 157,000 children. The territory over which Mother Fidelis governed, embraced provinces in the United States, Canada, Japan, Guam and part of South America.

Mother Fidelis took her final vows at the Notre Dame motherhouse here in 1913. She taught at St. Anne's school, Milwaukee, and for 15 years at McDonnell Memorial high school in Chippewa Falls. She was recalled to Milwaukee to become one of the first teachers at Messmer High school.

Following an assignment as principal of Sacred Heart grade and high school at Laurium, Michigan, she returned to the motherhouse in 1932 to be assistant to the commissary general. Nine years later, in 1941, she was elected commissary general. In 1947 she was re-elected for a second term of six years.

She was the author, with her sister, Sister M. Charitas, S.S.N.D., head of the education department of Mt. Mary college, of a "Character Calendar," published in 1930.

The survivors, in addition to Sister Charitas, are Sister M. Gertrude, a Parish Visitor of Mary Immaculate, located here, and three brothers, William J., Andrew J., and Henry J. Kreiter, all of Crown Point, Ind.

Mother Fidelis, a worthy successor to Mother Caroline, was buried in the community's cemetery at Elm Grove, in a plot close to the American foundress.

Martinson Home Damaged By Fire

Fire starting in the basement of the Hilding Martinson home, 934 Sheridan road, today caused minor damage but for a time endangered the lives of Mrs. Martinson and three young children.

Responding to a call received at 10:37 a. m. firemen from the North Escanaba and Central fire stations arrived at the Martinson home to find the basement in flames. The fire was quickly extinguished and most of the damage to the two-story frame house was from smoke.

Firemen reported that Mrs. Martinson was on the second floor of the house when she heard the two older children screaming in the basement. She rushed down to find it afire, apparently started by the children opening the furnace door.

The youngest child was taken from its crib on the first floor and carried out by the firemen.

Voters Favor Fund Transfer

Escanaba Township Schools Benefit

In a special referendum held yesterday the voters of Escanaba township approved a proposal to transfer $5,000 in surplus township funds to the Escanaba school district for a school building and site fund.

The vote was 85 "Yes" and 60 "No."

In approving the proposal the voters authorized the township board to transfer the $5,000 from the general fund of the township to the township school district.

The law requires that before such transfers are made the voters must give it majority approval in an election.

Three years ago the Escanaba township school board received plans for a new school in a planning program aided by federal funds.

The present proposal is for a smaller school than the one originally planned. It will have three rooms and will replace two old and over crowded one-room schools. Two other two-room schools in the township will be unchanged. The township now employs six teachers.

To finance the project it will be necessary for the voters to approve a bond issue proposal and a school debt service tax.

Warrant Is Issued In Saginaw Murder; Immorality Charged

Saginaw, Mich., Dec. 6. (P)—A warrant was asked today charging Cecil Angle, a Saginaw teacher, with murdering Mrs. Pearl Walters after "an immoral act of sexual perversion."

Prosecutor Henry E. Naegley, Jr., said the 64-year-old wedding instructor at Saginaw Continuation school had waived lie detector tests.

Earlier the Saginaw county sheriff, William A. Munroe, said a warrant probably would be delayed until lie detector and psychiatric tests had been completed. The warrant accused Angle of "fatally beating Mrs. Walters to death after the performance of an immoral act of sexual perversion." Angle has admitted fighting with the woman over payment for a sex act.

CHICAGO EGGS
Chicago, Dec. 6 (P)—Eggs, unsettled; receipts 11,674; prices unchanged except a cent a dozen lower on U. S. extras at 40.

CHICAGO GRAIN
Chicago, Dec. 6 (P)—Grain worked a little lower on the Board of Trade today after a fairly steady opening. Soybeans, however, developed considerable weakness.

Observers said the market was influenced by a statement by Ralph Trigg, president of the Continental Credit Corporation, that his agency was nearing its borrowing limit.

Some disappointment was expressed in the wheat pit because anticipated flour buying did not develop at the outset of trading.

July wheat was one soft spot, off around a cent in early trading.

Commission houses were on the selling side in soybeans, and most contracts dipped more than two cents. During the first hour wheat was 3/4 to 1/2 cent lower, December $2.21 1/2; corn was 1/4 to 1/2 lower, December $1.29 1/2, and oats were 3/4 to 1/2 lower, December 76 1/2. Soybeans were 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 cents lower, December $23.94, and hard was 10 to 17 cents, a hundred-weight lower, January $10.10.

Attorney General Blocks Bids For New State Ferry

Lansing, Dec. 6 (P)—Attorney General Stephen J. Roth today blocked awarding of a contract for the construction of a $4,314,000 combination car ferry and ice breaker at the Straits of Mackinac.

Roth, a Democrat, renewing his legal feud with the Republican-controlled state highway department, ruled that the contract would be illegal because the bids were not taken by the Democratic-controlled department of administration.

Schoolcraft Holds Lowest Record In Crime Convictions

Lansing (P)—Better than one out of every thousand persons in Michigan was convicted of a major criminal offense during 1948, the state corrections department reported.

Five counties—Charlevoix, Ingham, Jackson, Missaukee, and Newaygo—had conviction rates of more than two per 1,000 population, with Missaukee's 2.93 the highest in the state.

Missaukee county also had the doubtful honor of being the only county of less than 10,000 population to have more than a 2 per thousand conviction ratio.

The department cited five counties as having small conviction ratios. These were: Schoolcraft, 0.21; Crawford, 0.23; Keweenaw, 0.31; St. Joseph, 0.34 and Chippewa, 0.35.

Among the large-population counties Ingham was high with 2.04 convictions per 1,000 of population. Runners-up were: Jackson, 2.03; Washtenaw, 1.96; Kent, 1.40; Wayne, 1.38; Calhoun, 1.19; Genesee, 1.14; Muskegon, 1.10; Kalamazoo, 0.81; Oakland, 0.73; Macomb, 0.69; and Saginaw, 0.57.

The department listed 11 counties which had 100 or more felony convictions during 1948. These were: Wayne, 3,307; Kent, 372; Ingham, 315; Genesee, 280; Oakland, 250; Washtenaw, 231; Jackson, 222; Muskegon, 162; Berrien, 142; Calhoun, 136; and Macomb, 116.

The department reported that 35 per cent of the convicted persons were sent to prison and 45 per cent placed on probation. The remainder drew minor jail sentences or were fined.

Aluminum Heating Ducts Efficient

New York, (SS.)—Aluminum ducts to carry heat from furnace to rooms are superior to those of other materials, according to comparative tests made by the Conte Prof. B. C. Raber of the University of California, in collaboration with Prof. J. T. Geer of the same institution.

Also they are cheaper than ordinary insulated ducts because they need no insulation. Reporting on the California tests, Donald W. White, of the Aluminum Association, stated here today that aluminum ducts with ordinary insulating paper coverings were found to be less efficient than bare aluminum ducts.

The California tests show also, he said, that the efficiency of existing asbestos-paper-covered ducts can be raised to a level comparable with that of bare aluminum ducts by adding an additional wrapping of aluminum foil, sealed at the joints with aluminum tape.

TOSCANINI IS SENATOR

Rome, Dec. 6 (P)—It's Senator Arturo Toscanini now. The famous conductor was named a life-time honorary senator of the Italian Republic yesterday for his contributions to the world of music.

The highway department, taking bids Oct. 26, reported that the Great Lakes Engineering Works of River Rouge was low bidder for the new 360-foot double end vessel capable of carrying 150 automobiles.

In the interim it has been deciding which of a number of power systems would be most economical and today recommended a direct diesel drive power system.

Governor Williams, obviously flustered at Roth's ruling, urged the highway department, the attorney general and the department of administration to see if there were not some way of straightening out the situation without taking new bids.

Louis A. Baier, head of the marine department of the University of Michigan, professor of naval architecture and highway department consultant on the new ferry, had just told the state administrative board that the bids were highly favorable and that any delay might mean more costly bids and a serious delay in getting the new ferry into operation.

Letting of the contract now, the expert said, should mean the ferry would be ready in the spring of 1951.

State Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler told the board that the department had abandoned any thought of using the existing $1,000,000 causeway near St. Ignace as a ferry dock.

Professor Baier said engineering studies showed the causeway was "highly vulnerable" to wind, ice and currents, would require duplicate docks at St. Ignace anyway for use in bad weather and would result in unnecessary confusion and time loss for motorists when the ferry and waiting lines of cars had to shift from the causeway to the downtown docks.

The marine expert said that the causeway invited shoaling and would lead to continual dredging. Ziegler reported that bad weather would have prevented use of the causeway on 50 days during the last summer season, including such rush periods as the Fourth of July, Labor Day and 30 hours during the peak of the deer hunter crossing.

Reporting that the causeway was improperly built and was settling badly, Ziegler said $3,000,000 would be needed to fit it for a temporary dock and $10,000,000 for a year-around dock.

Prof. Baier recommended construction of a new dock, estimated at $1,600,000 at the so-called "old furnace site" at St. Ignace. He said the existing ferry dock would have to be replaced anyway and that the proposed new dock would cut a mile and a quarter off the ferry run.

Slight modification of the Mackinac city dock will be necessary for the big ice breaker, Ziegler reported.

Allies Accused Of Promoting Old Militarism

man rearmament because she needs her whole power for civilian reconstruction. He added that if the western allies insisted, however, western Germany would be willing to raise an army—equipped by the United States—to serve as part of a European army under a combined European command.

Commenting on recent German press reactions, the U. S. high commission's press branch reported:

"The German press comes to the sad conclusion that while Prussian militarism has died, world militarism is growing and flourishing x x x."

"Despite all official denials, the discussions of possible military participation of Germany in defense of western Europe will not down, The paradoxical situation is that the allies, who have charged Germany's past military spirit with prime responsibility for the troubles of the last century, are now being reproached, with themselves adding fuel to the military flames."

Big Three Blamed

"The newspapers display sharp displeasure over what they call the nonchalance with which the western world takes into its calculations the use of young German manhood," said the press report. "Such a 'cannon fodder' army is rejected as out of the question."

The newspaper Frankfurter Allgemeine was reported as saying: "Despite official denials, all the world knows that the coolly-working brains of the western generals and experts are weighing the problem of re-erecting the age-old 'bulwark against the east.' The fact must be stressed that this idea was born in Washington, London and Paris and not in Frankfurt or Bonn."

The Deutsche Zeitung of Stuttgart said:

"All suggestions to include west Germany in the Atlantic Pact were not made by a clique of German militarists but by foreign politicians and professional soldiers. We do not aim at remilitarization or recruiting of a west German army of mercenaries which, in case of war, would have to sacrifice itself."

"The Mannheim Morgen said: 'The majority of Germans neither want to wear uniforms again nor to be valued as mercenaries.'"

The Hamburger Freie Presse said in the next war the "poor continental armies would have to meet Russian super-forces and most probably be smashed by them. Such an honor would be most willingly transferred to the Germans."

Hearing On Ex-Nazi Professor Opens At Houghton Today

Houghton, Mich., Dec. 6. (P)—A deportation hearing was scheduled to begin here today for E. V. Sittler, former professor at Michigan Institute of Mining and Technology.

The American-born Sittler, who renounced his citizenship to make wartime broadcasts from Germany, was brought to this country to testify in treason trials. His visitor's permit expires at the end of the year.

After his background was disclosed, he was dismissed from his college job here, where he was a German language instructor.

Rep. John B. Bennett (R-Mich.) demanded that he be deported. Sittler has announced that he will fight the deportation order.

Quintuplets Reported Born In Colombia; All Five Are Boys

Medellin, Colombia, Dec. 6 (P)—Quintuplets—five boys and all in good health—were born several days ago to Maria Arroyave in the little town of Angostura.

Report of the births arrived by telegram from the mayor of Angostura only yesterday.

The quintuplets have been baptized Fermín, Ramiro, Rodrigo, Nabor and Francisco. Their father's name is Alfonso.

The governor of the department (state) of Antioquia ordered the mother and children brought from their town, 50 miles northeast of here, to Medellin where they are to be given the best medical attention.

Student Paper Raps Gen. Ike

Talk By University Prexy Criticized

New York, Dec. 6 (P)—Columbia University's student newspaper opened yesterday with some caustic comments about the university's president, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

In an editorial, "The Columbia Daily Spectator" leveled its main fire at a speech Eisenhower made last week before the St. Andrew's society at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

"If the speech was a trial balloon," the newspaper said, "we think public reaction will soon flatten it." The general, in the speech, said he thought too much emphasis was being placed on personal security at the expense of individual liberty. He was quoted as saying that perhaps people wanted champagne when they should have "hot dogs and beer."

The student editorial commented:

"Being content with beer and hot dogs has never been part of the American tradition we know. The one we know assures any citizen that he may some day eat champagne and caviar, and in the White House at that. We don't know, of course, but we are willing to bet beer and hot dogs weren't on the menu at the Waldorf-Astoria last Wednesday night, either."

The editorial said "We gather the general believes the American people are unduly obsessed with a desire for security to the detriment of their personal liberties." The paper added that protection from foreign aggressors "is only one kind of security."

"The American people have and still do seek other securities," the editorial said. "For one thing, they want continued security against the type of economic liberty which frustrated for so long minimum wage and hour legislation, the formation of labor unions, collective bargaining and which still denies the federal government the means for regulating child labor."

The campus paper referred to Eisenhower as the man "who doubles as president of the university." It noted his "many trips away from the campus" and added that "perhaps in the near future our chief officer will have the time to meet some of us x x x."

Eisenhower, away on a trip to Texas, could not be reached immediately for comment.

No Agreement Yet But GOP Leaders Draft Platform

Washington, Dec. 6. (P)—Two GOP senators said today the Republicans are going to draft a 1950 congressional campaign platform despite the difficulty of agreement on issues.

Senator Brewster of Maine, who heads the party's senatorial campaign committee, told a reporter he thinks congressional leaders will fall in line behind the proposal of Guy G. Gabrielson, the GOP national chairman, for a statement of party principles.

Brewster said that even Senator Taft of Ohio, who has opposed the move, has agreed to draft a brief statement of his ideas and pitch it into the pot for study for a committee. Gabrielson is expected to name soon.

Taft heads the party's senate policy committee and disagrees sharply with some of his GOP colleagues, particularly on foreign policies.

In a separate interview, Senator Butler of Nebraska threw his support to the policy statement plan. Butler was named, along with Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, earlier in the year as a senate representative on a policy committee which former GOP Chairman Hugh D. Scott, Jr., was forming when a revolt within the national committee cost Scott his job.

Last Rites Held For Rep. Espie At North Eagle, Mich.

By JAMES A. O. CROWE
Grand Ledge, Mich., Dec. 6. (P)—Rep. John P. Espie, dean of the Michigan legislature, was buried yesterday under a barren maple tree which bowed in a raw west wind.

The former all-powerful chairman of the house ways and means committee, was committed to the frozen ground while the last rites of the Masonic order were read.

Mingled with the former neighbors were Governor Williams, former Governor Harry F. Kelly, state officials and legislators who stood bare-headed in the North Eagle cemetery.

A long procession of cars under a heavy state police escort had wound some eight miles through the Clinton county hills from Grand Ledge where the age-old liturgy for the dead was read in Trinity Episcopal church by the Rev. Dr. Charles E. White.

Fellow church members, the Espie family and state dignitaries jammed the little church, which normally holds 200 persons. Fourteen candles twinkled on the altar as Dr. White paid tribute in a brief sermon to "a leader in the affairs of state."

Taking as his text the Bible quotation, "A great man hath fallen this day in Israel," Dr. White declared that Espie "overcame problems and limitations as few men ever did."

"He served well and with distinction," the rector said. "He had the trust and confidence of the people."

Dr. White said Espie talked often of his mother and took great pride in his Christian heritage.

Traffic Snarled
The flood of cars arriving from all over the state for the funeral snarled traffic in this quiet little city. A squad of eight state police assisted the Grand Ledge police in directing traffic.

Among other state notables present were State Treasurer D. Hale Brake, State Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler, Dr. Alexander G. Ruthven, president of the University of Michigan, Dr. John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State college, and former Secretary of State Herman Dignam.

The remaining 12 members of the ways and means committee served as honorary pallbearers and along with four senators officially represented the legislature. Many other legislators attended.

Espie, who was 68, died Friday of heart disease in the modest farm home near Eagle he had occupied since 1909. During his 25 years in the legislature he rose to a position of unparalleled influence.

The oldest school of record in Austria was a monastery school founded in Salzburg in 745.

Missed Plane Saves A Life

Hunter At Escanaba Praises Kidney Cure

Milwaukee, (P)—John Buiten missed an airplane connection a couple weeks ago and he thinks that saved his life.

Buiten, a 55-year-old Grand Rapids, Mich., furniture salesman, was taken ill with acute uremia while hunting in Northern Michigan. He started for a Minneapolis hospital by air, but missed a connection at Milwaukee.

That, he says, is how he became the first person in the Midwest to be treated by a mechanical kidney, built by the Allis - Chalmers Manufacturing Co., and given to Columbia hospital.

Commenting on the missed plane, Buiten said as he left the hospital:

"I was in awful shape by then. My legs were so swollen I could hardly walk and my face was all puffed up. I got in touch with a doctor here because I thought I shouldn't be travelling alone in that condition."

"He and the urologist who was called in consultation told me about the mechanical kidney at Columbia. They explained it had never been used before and asked if I had any objection to being treated with it."

"I'd been in the hospital a few days then and I knew I couldn't live much longer the way I was. The mechanical kidney was news to me and to my wife, who had joined me by then. But we were ready to grasp at straws by that time and we both were more than willing to give it a try."

In the kidney, the patient's blood is passed by way of a long piece of tubing through a solution which removes poisons that the patient's kidneys have failed to remove. The blood then re-enters the patient's body.

"I was conscious during the treatment, but I was too ill to remember much about it. There was no pain from the treatment, itself—no sensation at all, really."

"It was the next morning that

IMPORTANT OXYGEN

As yet, Mount Everest never has been climbed, even by climbers carrying oxygen tanks. But it has been proved that it is possible for human beings to exist at that height without artificial air. Oxygen enables men to climb faster, and thus suffer less from the severe weather.

Sales To Minors Big Liquor Problem

THE major problem in liquor law enforcement in Michigan has long been and still is the problem of minors. The great majority of all violation cases before the liquor control commission involves the sale of alcoholic beverages to minors. Sixteen of such cases are scheduled to be heard in the Upper Peninsula this month, five of them against Delta county licensees.

In an attempt to simplify the problem, the legislature a few years ago enacted a law which provides persons 21 to 26 years of age may secure an identification card from the county clerk. Possession of such a card attests that the holder is of legal age to be served intoxicating beverages.

The card system has proved helpful but it has not solved the problem by any means. Only a comparatively few persons in the 21-26 age group have bothered to secure identification cards. The law does not require possession of an identification card as a prerequisite for serving alcoholic beverages to persons 21-26 years of age, but bartenders may refuse to serve such persons if they do not produce identification cards.

Comparatively few bartenders willfully sell to minors. Such sales invariably are the result of errors in judgment of the drinker's real age. The problem could be licked, however, or at least drastically reduced if beer and liquor establishments more generally emphasized the importance of the liquor identification cards and insisted upon the presentation of such cards before making sales.

Adoption of this policy would prompt a larger percentage of people in the 21-26 age group to secure identification cards at the county clerk's office.

Ziegler Proposes Bridge Authority

STATE HIGHWAY COMMISSIONER Charles Ziegler has recommended that the state legislature reestablish a Straits of Mackinac Bridge Authority to determine the feasibility of a bridge to link the two peninsulas of Michigan. A bridge authority was created before the war and did extensive work on the project until the agency was dissolved a few years ago.

The creation of a new bridge authority is desirable, but such an agency should also be empowered to study the sites for a proposed new ferry dock. Commissioner Ziegler has ruled out the St. Ignace causeway as a site for the new dock, expressing preference for the so-called Furnace location at St. Ignace.

And yet the location of the new ferry dock, required for the larger ferryway soon to be constructed, is closely allied with the movement to construct a bridge across the straits.

If the proposed bridge authority is to be empowered with the job of analyzing the factors connected with the construction of a bridge across the straits, it should also have a voice in the location of the new dock. If a dock on the causeway is practical, in contradiction to Mr. Ziegler's contention, that is where the dock should be established because it offers a shorter route across the straits and because it will serve to hasten the day when a bridge across the straits becomes a reality.

Mr. Ziegler may be right in his contention that the causeway is not the correct site for a new ferry dock, but thus far he has failed to convince the transportation committee of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau or the governor's interpeninsula communications commission.

Rent Ceilings To End In 1950

PRESENT prospects are that federal rent controls will not be extended beyond the expiration date of June 30, 1950, set forth in the existing law.

The tip-off comes from Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama, who is chairman of the Senate Banking Committee which has charge of such legislation. He says there will be no further extension of controls.

Nothing definite on the subject has been heard from Rep. Brent Spence of Kentucky, chairman of the House Banking Committee where control proposals are considered in the lower chamber. But Sparkman's opposition is enough.

President Truman is pretty sure to ask congress for a renewal of federal rent ceilings, on the ground that the housing shortage is not yet ended. Still, he cannot hope to win his point unless he has the active support of the congressional leaders who must drive the program to passage.

Ever since World War II was over, rent control extension has been just squeaking by in congress. The law has been progressively weakened each year. The current version contains a provision allowing state and local action to wipe out controls, and many areas have availed themselves of the opportunity.

Republicans have spearheaded the opposition and can be expected to maintain this attitude. Only the defection of big city party members kept the lid on when the GOP ruled congress in 1947 and 1948. There undoubtedly will be fewer in this rebel group in 1950.

On the other side, more and more Democrats have come over to the opposition with the passing years. Loyal administration backers and big city lawmakers formed the hard core that helped preserve federal restrictions.

But Sparkman's statement indicates that next year even the Democratic faithful for the most part will be found in the opposing camp. If he does not choose to pilot a rent control bill to the senate floor, it is virtually a foregone conclusion that federal regulation of rents will die when the present deadline arrives.

The clincher in the minds of many congressmen has been the huge volume of home building in the last two years, plus the outlook for only slightly reduced construction activity in 1950.

The government expects this year's building to surpass the record 937,000 private dwelling units erected in 1925. Next year a drop of about 7 per cent is looked for, but the total is forecast at a substantial $13,100,000,000.

Higher Rail Rates Is No Solution

THE eastern railroads have been granted a 12 1/2% increase in passenger fares by the Interstate Commerce Commission in an effort to recover operating losses of their passenger trains, but it's a virtual certainty that the railroads will find the fare increase no solution to their problem.

Even before the increase in railroad fares, the airlines were making heavy inroads in the passenger business of the railroads. This year, for instance, the airlines have carried 43 1/2% of first class passengers. They expect to be very close to 50% next year.

Promptly after the new rail passenger rates were announced by the eastern railroads, the Air Transport association presented comparative schedules that show plane fares are less in almost every instance than the new rail rates. The comparison is predicated upon basic rates and does not include the savings in meals, etc., made possible by the reduced travelling time.

The rate boost is not likely to increase the gross receipts of the railroads. On the contrary, the increased fares will probably divert a greater percentage of travelers to the airlines and the motor coaches.

The railroads will surely have to find a new approach to their financial problems than simply by raising rates every time they check their balance sheets and find red ink.

WHO'S THE GUILTY ONE?

(Milwaukee Journal)
Senator Flanders of Vermont, who consistently refuses to be blinded by the dazzling lights of political expediency, said the other day that the administration and congress are about equally to blame for the prospective federal deficit.

"The administration is to blame for throwing the budget out of balance as a result of its free spending policies," Flanders explained. "But congress is just about as much at fault for permitting the situation, and failing to remedy it."

These words may constitute political and Republican heresy but they happen to be true. They should be kept in mind next year, when charges and countercharges about responsibility for the deficit will be as thick as confetti on New Year's eve.

CONFUSION OF TENSES A COMMON MISTAKE

Teachers have told me that they despair of stamping out these grammatical errors among grade school students: "I done; I drunk; I seen; I taken." As a matter of fact, school children are not the only offenders, for many adults fail to distinguish between the past tense (I did; I saw; I took, etc.) and the past participle (I have done; I have seen; I have taken).

My colleague, Dr. Etain Shrlu, a reformed college professor, who was once celebrated in scholastic circles for his talent for making English grammar utterly incomprehensible, defines a past participle as, "A part of the verb representing action that is past or reaches into the past with reference to the time of the principal or governing verb."

(He received an honorary M. A.—Master of Ambiguity—for thinking that one up.)

Instead of trying to unscramble the good doctor's double-talk, let us show by example, the difference between the past tense and the past participle:

The past tense (action definitely completed in the past). I did it yesterday; I drank two cups of coffee at breakfast; I saw her mail the letter; I took the book to her last week; I threw a stone into the pond.

Now we see that the past tense properly describes a particular action that is completed and done for.

The past participle describes an action that often may be thought of as continuing up to the present moment; and it may be repeated at some time in the future. For example: I have drunk coffee for many years. This means that I still drink coffee, and shall continue to drink it. On the other hand, the past tense, "I drank coffee for many years" clearly means that I no longer drink coffee.

Should one say, "It was the best picture I ever saw (past tense)," one implies that going to the movies is over and done with forever.

The proper statement is: "It is the best picture I have ever seen." This means that I shall see many future pictures,

Few New Dealers Still Hold Jobs

BY PETER EDSON

Washington (NEA)—Oscar Chapman, newly sworn in as secretary of interior, is sometimes called "the last of the original New Dealers." The shoe fits, though not too well. Oscar Chapman was made under-secretary of interior by President Roosevelt in May, 1933, and held that job right up to the time President Truman promoted him. So he is the only cabinet or little cabinet officer who has stayed on the job during 16 years of continuous Democratic rule.

This means that there has been a greater turnover in the Democratic dynasty than many people realize. If it's true that the United States is now overriden by a self-perpetuating machine that has ruthlessly flattened out all political opposition, it has been done with many changes of driver, maintenance crew and road gang.

There were something over 3,000 government jobs that paid $10,000 a year or better, up to the last pay increase. This includes generals and admirals, career diplomats and the heads of the independent regulatory agencies like Interstate Commerce Commission, who are supposed to be non-political. A fair guess made by ex-President Hoover's Reorganization Commission is that something less than half of the total—about 1,300—are political appointments for policy-making jobs, responsible to the president.

Whatever the number, there are today only about 25 of these top policy-making officials of the Truman administration who were in Washington government jobs in the early days of the New Deal. The list is worth running over, to see who the real veterans are, along with Oscar Chapman.

RESIGNATION REDUCES THE LIST
David Lilienthal, just resigned as Atomic Energy Commission chairman, was made TVA chairman in 1933. The present TVA chairman, Gordon Clapp, also went to work there in 1933, in a minor capacity.

Arthur J. Altmeyer, Social Security commissioner, went to work under the NRA blue eagle in 1933. Next year he became assistant labor secretary, which puts him close behind Chapman.

Ambassador to Britain Lewis W. Douglas was Roosevelt's first director of budget, but he broke with the president in 1934 and got out of government till the outbreak of war.

Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas is often regarded as a pioneer New Dealer, but he wasn't made a member of Securities and Exchange Commission until 1936.

Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson has been in government since 1908, was an assistant PMG in 1932.

Defense Secretary Louis W. Johnson was a civilian aide to the secretary of war from 1933 to 1937, then assistant secretary of war till 1937, when he got out of government for 12 years.

Stephen T. Early, now undersecretary of defense, was of course Roosevelt's first and only press secretary. And Presidential Secretary William D. Hassett first entered government in 1933 as an NRA employee.

Marriner S. Eccles, Roosevelt's fiscal braintrust, was made a member of Federal Reserve Board in 1933, chairman 1936-48.

Edward H. Foley, Jr., undersecretary of treasury, was made an RFC attorney in 1932 and has been in government service since.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson was Roosevelt's first undersecretary of treasury in 1933, but broke with the president and did not re-enter the cabinet until 1941, as assistant secretary of state.

Assistant Secretary of State Ernest A. Gross was a State Department legal adviser in 1931-2 and an NRA lawyer the next two years. Since then he has had a varied though non-political government and army career.

DATES FROM HOOVER'S DAY
Chairman Harvey J. Gunderson of RFC has been a member of that organization's board since 1932, an original Hoover appointee.

Chairman Paul M. Herzog of NLRB was first connected with that organization as an assistant secretary from 1933 to 1935.

Acting Chairman Leon H. Keyserling of the Council of Economic Advisers was New Deal Sen. Robert F. Wagner's secretary in 1933.

Joseph P. O'Connell, Jr., now chairman of Civil Aeronautics Board, was assistant General counsel of PWA, 1933-38.

Oswald Ryan, vice chairman of CAB, was Federal Power Commission general counsel 1932-38, when he first became a CAB member.

Winfield W. Rieffer, being considered for the past of chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, became chief of the RFC statistical division in 1933 and has held various government advisory positions since then, though never active politically.

some of which may be even more enjoyable than the one one I am speaking of.

Avoid: "She's the prettiest girl I ever saw." Better: She's the prettiest girl I have ever seen (up to this time).

Avoid: "I went to New York three times." Better: I have been to New York three times (and I may go there many times more).

Now we see why it is incorrect to say, "I done, I drunk, I seen, I taken." The past participles done, drunk, seen, taken, thrown, must have such assisting words as have, has, had, was, etc., as: I do, I did, I have done; I drink; I drank, I take, I saw, I saw, I have seen; I take, I took, I have taken.

Over the Hill to the Poorhouse

Good Evening By Clint Dunathan

ALL OF THE NEWS—Officers and members of organizations sometimes express dissatisfaction with the reports of their meetings as they appear in the newspaper.

They expect more space devoted to the story of their meetings, perhaps not realizing that for one or more reasons a longer story could not be presented by the newspaper.

It is obviously impossible for a newspaper to send a reporter to every meeting.

There are too many organizations holding meetings of slight public interest to warrant that kind of news coverage.

Most organizations do have publicity chairmen whose duty it is to keep the newspaper and the public informed on organization activities. Their work will be more effective if they follow instructions in a "Tips for Publicity Chairmen" letter that is being distributed by the Escanaba Daily Press.

WHILE IT IS NEWS—"First and most important of general rules for publicity is the time element. Report the news while it is news!" advises the Daily Press.

Publicity chairmen are urged to send in all their advance stories three or four days ahead of the meeting. An article in the Press the day of the meeting will do the organization very little good and will take up valuable space that should be used for spot news. For that reason the Press has a rule against advance notices on the day of the meeting.

The above may expallin to the members of some organizations why they received no advance meeting notice, or had it cut to the bone. The cooperation of publicity chairmen will remedy this.

THOSE DEADLINES—Every newspaper has deadlines on the times it can get news items into the newspaper that day. If the information reaches the newspaper too late, it is physically impossible to get it into print that day. This means a delay, disappointment, and sometimes requires cutting the story because there is nothing that is less interesting to readers than warmed-over stories.

Publicity chairmen are advised to call as early as possible after 8 a. m. the morning following the meeting they are to report. The woman's page deadline is 11:15 a. m. Monday through Friday, and 10:30 a. m. Saturday, for example.

Deadlines means that the story must be typed, a headline written for it and must be in the hands of the linotype operator by that hour. Yours is not the only report coming in. All of them must be handled. This takes time—so call early.

GENERAL RULES—When the reports are mailed or delivered in writing to the Daily Press news room they should be typed or clearly written. If typed, the report should be double spaced on one side of the paper only.

The report should be concise and contain only the important facts. "The general public is not interested in the detailed minutes of a meeting."

Follow the reporter's general rule: Answer the questions, who, what, where, when and why, and you have a complete news story.

NAMES ARE NEWS—As many names as possible should appear

INTO THE PAST

Ten Years Ago

Escanaba—Lawrence J. Jacobs was elected district chairman of the Escanaba Scout district at the annual committee meeting. He succeeds Harry Brackett. Ernest G. Bennett was elected vice president and Clarence Zerbel, commissioner.

Gladstone—Mrs. Kittie Mott was elected president of the Deacons of Honor at a meeting this week at the Albert Latimer home. Manistique—Miss Jessie Barton home economics teacher in Menominee, spent the weekend here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Barton.

Twenty Years Ago

Gladstone—Herbert Van Horn has been engaged to manage the playground ice rink this winter. Escanaba—Dr. and Mrs. A. F. Snyder are leaving to make their home in Barbo, Wis. The Snyders have been in Escanaba 32 years.

Escanaba—Congressman F. P. Bohn of Newberry yesterday recommended the appointment of George G. Geniesse as postmaster of Escanaba, to succeed John A. Semer, who was not a candidate for reappointment.

Engadine—Mr. and Mrs. Jay Church have left for Lansing where they will spend the winter.

If a modern, push-button war, with the dropping of atom bombs, should occur, there is no preparation or understanding of what citizens can do to help or protect themselves.

Increasing the price of gold is a deceptively easy, as well as potentially dangerous, way for the treasury to provide more dollars for foreign aid . . . or for domestic purposes . . . without having to raise taxes or to borrow.—Chairman Thomas B. McCabe of the Federal Reserve Board.

in news accounts. Often the newspaper must depend upon the publicity chairmen to give these names completely and correctly.

"An individual's name is one of his proudest possessions. If you misspell it you will spoil in one news item all the good will you have built up in months or maybe years of activities."

Mrs. Larsen (with an E) justifiably resents seeing her name in print spelled Mrs. Larson (with an O).

"Prefix the name of a married woman with her husband's full name or two initials. Mrs. J. Larsen is not acceptable in newspaper stories. Do not use her given name. She may be Lucy or Betty to you, but to the general public she is Mrs. John Larsen or Mrs. J. B. Larsen. If she is a widow she still is Mrs. John or Mrs. J. B. Only if she is divorced is she Mrs. Betty or Mrs. Lucy."

Check the spelling of first names as carefully as the last names. For example, you can spell it Catherine, Katherine, Kathryn, etc.

COMPLETE—The written or telephoned report to the newspaper should be accurate and complete. It is suggested that in the written report all names be printed. Before telephoning, assemble all the information you intend to convey—so that a second (sometimes third) call will not waste your time.

The complete news story, giving all of the information the reader desires, is a satisfaction to him and to the persons mentioned in the story. Publicity chairmen can materially assist the newspaper in attaining that goal.

Asks No Donations

Dear Editor:

A few weeks ago, at one of the local churches, a sermon was given by a visiting minister. It was a very fine talk on alcoholism and the work of Alcoholics Anonymous. However, at the close of his sermon he spoke of the Michigan Temperance Association and solicited donations for that association.

There was considerable misunderstanding among those who attended the services as to the part Alcoholics Anonymous plays in the problem of alcoholism and as to who was to receive in the donations that had been given.

Alcoholics Anonymous takes no part of any controversial issue. It does not support the Michigan Temperance Association or any other association, which may be for or against the sale and use of alcoholic beverages.

The sole purpose of Alcoholics Anonymous is for the sobriety of those who desire it. It does not solicit membership, nor does it offer aid to anyone except to those who seek it.

There are no dues, fees, or assessments in Alcoholics Anonymous. It does not seek donations or contributions. Acceptance of any offers in the way of contributing by persons outside of Alcoholics Anonymous is strictly forbidden.

Alcoholics Anonymous regrets any misunderstanding that may occur but sometimes they are inevitable, but we do desire that it be known to those outside of Alcoholics Anonymous that we are self-sustaining financially and otherwise, only seeking to help or aid those who have a drinking problem and who desire help.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington.—Recent revolution and rioting in Latin America has pointed up what the American public has long dimly realized, namely that while we are fighting Communism in Europe, we are losing out to Fascism at our own front door.

Panama, which surrounds the most important waterway in the world so far as the United States is concerned, is now in the hands of a dictator, Arnulfo Arias, who had roots in Germany and Italy during the days of Hitler and Mussolini. Just before Pearl Harbor, we considered him such a menace the United States helped to ouster him out of the presidency.

In Colombia, a country equally vital to the strategic waterway which links east-west shipping, the bloodiest riots in history have been taking place. Approximately 1,000 people have been killed, and a Fascist party, deliberately aided and abetted by Dictator Franco of Spain, has instituted such terror that it was impossible to hold two-way elections.

While U. S. senators have been guzzling Dictator Franco's lush wines in Madrid, Franco has been pulling the rug right out from under U. S. policy in one of the most important countries in the Pan American union.

Months ago Laurence Gomez, now the Colombian strong man, went to Madrid and arranged with Franco to have his shock falange forces smuggled into Colombia disguised in the robes of priests. Bloodshed and rioting has followed ever since.

TRUMAN'S PAN AMERICANISM

In the White House, Harry Truman speaks glowingly of his visits to Mexico and Brazil. He is also delighted at the prospect of making a trip to Chile. He considers Pan-American relations one of his most important policies, and if anyone walked in and told him the good neighbor policy had bogged down, he just wouldn't believe it.

But the trouble with President Truman is that he thinks of Pan-American friendship in terms of getting out a lot of flags and the brass bands to greet President Dutra of Brazil. He doesn't realize that the good-neighbor policy must be closely coordinated and carefully carried out every day of the year.

Over in the state department, meanwhile, one of the best young men in some years, Edward Miller, is assistant secretary for Latin America. Miller was born in Puerto Rico, speaks Spanish, knows Latin America intimately, works hard at his job.

Over in the Export-Import Bank, also, far more loans have been advanced in Latin America than most people realize.

But a successful good-neighbor policy isn't built up merely by dumping money into Latin America, or giving rousing welcomes to visiting Pan-American politicians.

Today we have a lot of well-meaning cogs in our diplomatic machinery, but sometimes they seem to be turning separately and in different directions. In brief, the gears do not mesh.

JESSE JONES' RIVAL

It looks like Jesse Jones, long considered the financial czar and once an aspiring political czar of Texas, now has a real rival. He is Texas oil tycoon Glenn McCarthy of Houston, who recently helped mastermind "Sam Rayburn day."

McCarthy has already built a 15-story hotel in Houston, the Shamrock, and now aspires to build a new business center on the outskirts of Houston. To finance it, McCarthy is reported in the market for an RFC loan, and it was considered significant that he sent his plus Stratoliner private airplane to Washington to fly some RFC officials to Houston for "Sam Rayburn day."

Taking the free ride to Texas for the big Democratic jamboree were James Connors, RFC comptroller, and Allen Freeze, his assistant, with their two wives. Neither are Texans.

Another RFC official, Marvin Weaver, assistant loan manager, declined an invitation because, he admitted afterward, "it might not look right."

Of course, Jesse Jones, when head of the powerful RFC, did not hesitate to accept trips in a private car on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad at a time when he was lending RFC money to that road. And it will be interesting to see whether Jesse's rival will now get a loan from the RFC.

Henry Kaiser Is Full Of Pep

Younger Executives
Hold Old Man Down

By ROBERT C. RUARK
Oakland, Calif.—Henry Kaiser's offices are done in lime green and coral red and are roughly as big as Yankee stadium.

There is nothing office-like about the blond woods and light carpets and the tremendous view of Oakland's skyline through the huge windows. The layout looks much more like Hollywood than industry.

When the urge for chow comes upon the great man, he gets into the elevator and rides down to a cheery, special dining room, where his top executives are busy munching at three or four tables. By slightly raising his voice, Mr. Kaiser can get an answer regarding any phase of his industries—cars, steel, aluminum, housing. The executives are mostly youngish and prone to downhold the enthusiasm of their big boss.

I do not believe I ever saw anyone who could touch Kaiser for enthusiasm. He works, roughly, about 10 years ahead of his freshest project—if he is building a car now of aluminum, say, he is already mulling over the prospect of constructing one of spun glass or moonbeams.

Toughy On Loans
The old gentleman of the moment is very toughy over the accusations that he has used the United States government largely to finance and expand his interlocking industries, at little risk of other than federal capital. His luncheon conversation is full of facts and figures and millions roll off his tongue like peas off a knife.

Kaiser's claim is that, despite his vast borrowings from Uncle Sam, he has effected equally vast savings on the production of wartime necessities over competitive industrialists; that he has ploughed back huge sums of personal profits, and that he has been most shy about buying back government defense plants at a few cents on the invested buck. He cites one sworn figure of $465,924,000 that he claims was saved the government in the production of ships, yards, magnesium, steel and cement over the prices of competing firms.

This I couldn't pass on, not being able to add an expense account, but boom or bust, ride or fall, the old man is a miracle worker and a great, if sometimes impractical, visionary. He is a chain-reaction provider of necessities in construction as the need for necessities arrive, and has worked a dozen impossible feats to bring off successful coups.

Kaiser's mass-production of Liberty ships and later, of the jeep carriers which performed so potently, was surely one of the heaviest material factors in winning the last war, yet he practically had to flim-flam his right to build them. Our government wouldn't touch his Liberty project until after he had constructed 30 ships for the British.

New Kaiser Car
The maritime commission and the navy hooted down his suggestion that he could mass-produce small carriers, with Admiral Emory Land almost booting him out of the commission offices after Kaiser loudly assailed his patriotism. He finally sold the little carriers on the strength of a picture-postcard painting of the carrier—"full of blue-sky and blue water, very pretty"—and a four-paragraph description of his idea, which found its way to President Roosevelt's desk.

This project got started over the protests of 16 admirals, and when the carriers finally hit satisfactory production, a step-up demand caused Kaiser to go into the steel business, with which he also was unfamiliar. The exigencies of producing steel drove him into a dozen sidebar industries, which he

Consider The
Adopted Child

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE
(AP) Newsfeatures

The adopted child and his parents have been the subjects of considerable discussion and study. "Yet, not enough has been done about the problem," says Roberta Andrews, Assistant Director of the Spence-Chapin Adoption Service.

Frequently, she says, a child is adopted by a man and wife after unsuccessful attempts to have a child of their own or to replace a child of their own who has died.

"The fact that a child is not the real offspring of parents is no reason why the child cannot be genuinely loved," she says. As a matter of fact, in many instances adopted children, especially when adopted young, are loved with the same warmth, tenderness and pride as "own" children would be.

"In our endeavor to make sure that the parents are right for the child, we may have seemed overly long in making selections," she continued. "But our case workers and supervisors are anxious to insure the happy and comfortable surroundings a child should have."

Maturity Essential

"Most adoption services are anxious to have couples of maturity adopt children. We want men and wives with ability to think of others as well as themselves. We want them to be warm and friendly; to possess qualities of love, an ability to love the adopted child as their own and with an understanding of the crises involved. We want people who have worked out a good marriage. In essence, we are looking for lifetime homes for our children."

One of the first questions children ask is where babies come from, she says. "In answering the child, it is essential to show that father and mother need not be related by blood to start a family and neither do the offspring. Don't gloss over the facts of human birth, but emphasize the fact that the child was 'specially chosen' because he was wanted. Tell him the story of how he was adopted and how much happiness he has brought to you, as parents. This means so much to the feeling of security he needs," she says.

Imagined Hurt

One argument often advanced against telling a child he is adopted, says Andrews, is when the child throws up to parents: "You're not my real mommy and daddy."

Should you be hurt by this seemingly ungrateful retort? "Not at all," she says. "Rather, it is one justification for our anxiety to select parents of maturity and understanding. The wise parents would realize that this is only the angry retort of a child who imagines a hurt. He does not mean it."

This whole problem of adoption is so vast, says Roberta Andrews that the Spence-Chapin Adoption Service has scheduled a luncheon conference at the Ritz-Carlton for November 15.

Molasses deserves a place in dishes prepared for a family because it is an excellent source of iron and offers important calcium. Use it in cookies, in gingerbread, when baking apples and pears, and in flavoring milk drinks.

New X-ray Shows Inside Of Things Like Steel Bars

Philadelphia, (P)—General Electric company has disclosed production of an X-ray microscope that can show the inside of things through which light cannot pass.

In other words: It can look into a bar of steel of a bar of candy.

The new instrument was shown for the first time at a meeting of the American Society for X-ray and electron diffraction.

Charly M. Lucht of the G-E research laboratory told the group the X-ray microscope is still in the laboratory stage of development.

But Miss Lucht pointed out it "may result in much sharper images and higher magnifications than are possible using visible light."

"The instrument may compete with electron microscopes in the future."

Right now, electron microscopes are the most powerful magnifying instruments in use. These use a beam of electrons rather than light to form an image of materials under study.

Miss Lucht said the X-ray microscope does not need to be used in a vacuum like the electron microscope.

"Because of this advantage," she said, "it may be possible to examine living materials at much higher magnifications than ever before."

She reported that "clear, sharp X-ray images, magnified 10 times have been produced in the laboratory, and these images have been magnified 10 times further by photographic enlargement without serious loss of detail."

So far the X-ray microscope has been used only to study the insides of fine mesh screens. And Miss Lucht says the instruments' ability to reveal tiny details has been excellent.

The microscope operates on the principle that X-rays can be reflected from polished surfaces, as can visible light, provided that the rays strike the surfaces at very small angles.

The instrument consists of an X-ray tube and a pair of curved mirrors. The X-rays strike the mirrors at an angle of less than one-half degree. The mirrors bend the beams in such a way as to cast a magnified X-ray image of the sample on a photographic film.

Tax Diversion Law Pays $173,038,207

Lansing, (P)—It was three years ago Dec. 3 Michigan's sales tax diversion amendment went into effect, and since then $173,038,207 in sales tax money has gone to schools, cities, villages and townships.

The amendment, diverting one-third of the three per cent tax on sales of tangible personal property to local units, was tacked onto the constitution by a favorable popular vote Nov. 3, 1946.

Under the terms of the constitution, it went into effect 30 days later.

It appeared on the ballot again in November, 1948, when the people refused to repeal it, despite pleas of many government leaders that it was bankrupting the state.

The amendment also mandated that school aid should total 44.77

HOHOLIK'S DAIRY"The choice of discriminating people"Millions Of Eggs
Are Received At
Fish Hatchery

Many of the trout that sport fishermen will try to catch in future seasons are now arriving in the Thompson fish hatchery—in the form of eggs.

James Kelly, hatchery superintendent, states that the hatchery expects to care for the fry of about a million brook trout, 250,000 rainbows and 175,000 brown trout. About 20 to 30 per cent of the eggs brought into the local rearing center will hatch, survive and become legal and sub-legal some sixteen to 20 months later.

The facilities of the local hatchery will be crowded for the time being, says Kelly, but with recent improvements in the rearing ponds at the hatchery, it is expected that the load will not be too serious.

Most of the brook trout eggs have come from the downstate hatchery at Paris or have been shipped in from hatcheries in the eastern part of the country.

The hatchery at Thompson is also receiving whitefish eggs from commercial fishermen from along the local Lake Michigan seaboard, but these will be shipped to the Marquette station for hatching.

Commercial fishermen are stripping their whitefish catches of roe and spawn and turning them over to the hatchery without remuneration as it is generally understood by the fishermen that they are the ones to be benefited later on.

The Thompson hatchery has undergone an extensive program of improvements which were completed about a month ago. Facilities have been enlarged and the efficiency of outdoor arrangements has been enhanced.

Is Demonstrated

Girl Scouts of Troop One made their fifth annual appearance before the Rotary club, their sponsoring organization, at the club's luncheon meeting Monday noon at the Yacht club.

Rosemary Willis as MC introduced the numbers. Self-introductions were given by the girls. The program was divided into two parts: the first, a resume of the work done during the past year; the second, Scouts' Own, cleverly arranged and ably presented.

The work resume given by Kay DeHooghe, Pat Hanson, Mary Alice Krout and Sue D'Amour revealed the girls intermingled work with play in a busy and happy year.

Highlight of the year was the receiving by ten members of the troop of the Curvey Bar which is to Girl Scouting what the Eagle Award is to Boy Scouting. Given the coveted award were Beatrice Bruce, Sue D'Amour, Mary Lee Mackie, Kay DeHooghe, Nancy Martin, Pat Hanson, Janet Sinclair, Mary Mathison, Rosemary Willis and Mary Alice Krout.

Troop mothers prepared and served an excellent dinner for Scouts and Leaders to celebrate the event.

Girls prepared a Christmas program and tray favors for the folks at the Convalescent home, had a winter cook-out, earned the interior decorator's badge with Mrs. C. J. McConagie as consultant, won the leather badge, wrote and produced a play, had a hay stack hop, which was their boy-girl party last year, sold poppies and did many other things which help make up a Girl Scout's year.

Several of the girls served as program aides at the Day Camp here and at the established camp at Clear Lake.

The Scouts' Own portion of the program was impressive and inspirational to both participants and members of the audience. It was the kind of a program which helps girls realize the ideals of Scouting and was enthusiastically received.

The next event on the Calendar of Troop I will be the annual program of Christmas carols at the Delta County Convalescent home on Dec. 19. Mary Lee Mackie is chairman of the committee.

A course in totem pole carving is offered at St. Mary's Life College, British Columbia's all-Indian school in North Vancouver.

"It Seems To Me"

BY JIM WARD

If all the hot stove league debates this winter over football's two-plateau system could be laid end to end, it would be a good thing. Especially, if they laid the plateau system itself right along side.

If you were to gather from the foregoing paragraph that we are against the two-plateau system, you would be right. To state our case briefly, we think it makes automats out of players, specialists instead of well-rounded players.

You put a nickel in the slot and you get a block. You invest a shekel here and you get two yards for a first down. Perhaps you're willing to squander two-bits there and out from the machine pops an eight-yard pass into the end zone for a touchdown.

Then, the fellow wearing a placard saying "Placekicking—Points after Touchdown a Specialty" enters the game and kicks the extra point.

Then, your team lines up to kick off. But where are you? You're on the offensive team. So you're on the bench. The defensive platoon has now taken over. But don't become alarmed. They'll lose the ball or have to kick and your parade will be on.

We're in for a long session of platoon talk. Basketball coaches are toying with the idea of contaminating the grand old court game with the platoon, instead of leaving it outside on the gridiron. That, if anywhere, is where it belongs.

But basketball coaches, bent on new ideas to win games and influence alumni groups, are beginning to talk about offense and defense basketball units. We'll wager a slightly used deer hide they'll live to rue the day.

Perhaps it has a place in football. At least it makes more sense there. But if they ever start platoon parades within a comparatively small area like a basketball court, we'll throw in the towel.

Cuff notes: University of Michigan followers can point with pride to the fact that the Wolverines played a tougher schedule than Notre Dame by far. The Irish won nationwide poll honors without playing a single other team in the top ten. How about that? Michigan played Army, fourth in the final AP poll; Ohio State, sixth ranking team, and Minnesota, eighth ranking team. In fact, the four major unbeaten, untied teams — Notre Dame, California, Oklahoma and Army—played a total of only one game against any other team in the first ten. That was the Army-Michigan game.

Hot Race Waged In NHL Passing

Philadelphia, Dec. 6 (AP)—A half dozen players are in the midst of a hot race for the National Football League's passing champion-ship.

NFL statistics released today show Charley Conerly of the New York Giants holding to a narrow lead.

Tommy Thompson of the champion Philadelphia Eagles and winner of the Diadem last year is closing with a rush. Conerly and Thompson match their marksmanship next Sunday in the final game of the season.

But if both have bad days any of the remaining four can move in: Sammy Baugh, Washington Redskins; Johnny Lujack, Chicago Bears; Bobby Layne, New York Bulldogs; and Bob Waterfield, Los Angeles Rams.

In nearly all the other individual departments, the final game of the season will do little to change the picture.

Steve Van Buren of the Eagles, greatest ground gainer in the league's history, holds a 62-yard margin over Green Bay's surprising Tony Canadeo in rushing with a new league mark for one season already to his credit.

Van Buren smashed his own loop record Sunday picking up 53 yards to bring his season's total to 1,050, good enough to shatter the previous league mark of 1,008 which he established in 1947.

In punting, Los Angeles' Waterfield preserved his lead compiling an average of 44.4 yards with 45 boots.

Stambaugh's Holme Makes Free Press All-State Eleven

Detroit, Dec. 6 (AP)—Grand Rapids Catholic Central, acclaimed the state's outstanding high school football team, today placed two players on the Detroit Free Press All-State aggregation.

The Free Press board of experts picked Jim Hoelzer, who quarterbacked the Cougar team, as captain of the "dream team." Jim Jebb, a C-C line stalwart, was named to the left tackle post.

Others in the All-Star backfield include Ellis Duckett, high scoring back at Flint Northern, and Leo Pope, burly River Rouge speedster, at the halfback slots. Mel Holme of Stambaugh beat out Dale Krieb of St. Johns for the fullback job.

Baltimore, Dec. 6 (AP)—The spotlight was thrust squarely upon the Boston Braves today as the rest of the trade-minded National league clubs waited to see what Manager Billy Southworth would do before making a move of their own.

The general feeling at this 48th minor league convention is that Southworth must dispose of at least three of his alleged "insurrectionists" before he resumes active control of the club on the field.

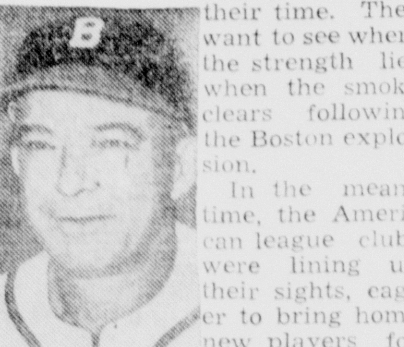

Johnny Sain Eddie Stanky

Those supposed to be in the know insist that second baseman Eddie Stanky and pitcher Johnny Sain and Bobby Hogue are certain to be traded. They would not be too surprised if Billy were to trade either southpaw ace Warren Spahn or righthander Vernon Bickford, both of whom are said to have voiced their displeasure against Southworth.

Southworth, due here today, left the Braves in mid-season because of illness following season-long reports of dissent in the club. Two of the alleged dissatisfied players — Jeff Heath and Phil Masi — are already gone.

Knowing that something must snap to break the trade jam, Brooklyn, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh and the Giants are patiently biding their time. They want to see where the strength lies when the smoke clears following the Boston explosion.

Billy Southworth

York Yankees and Ruckey Harris of the Washington Senators were huddled for 90 consecutive minutes in full view of ogling lobby-sitters.

The Yankees are said to be after Senator pitcher Rae Scarborough and/or first baseman Eddie Robinson. They are prepared to give up second baseman George Stinewiss, outfielder Johnny Lindell and first baseman Dick Kryhoski for the slugging Robinson. The Nats would want much more for Scarborough.

Bill Dewitt, president of the St.

Lion-Packer Go Sunday Looms As Grudge Battle

Detroit, Dec. 6 (AP)—A grudge fight—with bottom spot in the western division of the National football league at stake—looms Sunday when the Detroit Lions battle the Green Bay Packers.

The once-mighty Packers are now in the cellar with a record of two wins and nine losses. The Lions are in fourth place with three wins and eight losses.

The season finale Sunday in Briggs stadium should prove whether the Lions will finish out of the basement for the first time since 1943 or whether they are to share it with the Packers.

Detroit Coach Alvin "Bo" McMillin is priming his squad for the game. The Packers beat the Lions

ALMA NIPS ALBION

Albion, Mich., Dec. 6 (AP)—Alma college poured on the heat in the last half here last night to take a hectic 41-37 victory over Albion in the season opener in the MIAA Conference. The Scots trailing 20-19 at the half, came back to push through 16 points in the last ten minutes of play and gain an initial win for their new coach, Norman Borton.

Louis Browns revealed that the Cleveland Indians had made him a bid for third baseman Bob Dillinger but he had turned it down. Cleveland also offered to deal for Vic Wertz, hard-hitting Detroit outfielder, but were told Wertz was not "tradeable."

Spartans Bow To Iowa, 73-53

Hawkeyes Explode In Second Half

Iowa City, Ia., Dec. 6 (AP)—The Iowa Hawkeyes exploded for 42 points in the second half to swamp Michigan State, 73 to 53, in a non-conference basketball game last night.

It was Iowa's 42nd straight non-conference win at home. The Hawks haven't been bested here since 1942.

The loss was Michigan State's second in a row. The Spartans bowed to Michigan 52-49 in their season opener Saturday night.

Iowa stepped out quickly to an 8-0 lead and never was headed. The old gold cagers held a 31-25 lead at the half.

Gordon Stauffer, a reserve guard, tried to put the Spartans back in the game as Coach Alton Kirchner tried every combination to stop the Hawkeyes. Stauffer entered the game with 13 minutes remaining in the first period and connected on six of seven shots before the intermission. His 17 points were good for top scoring honors.

Justice, Walker To Square Off In College All-Star

Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 6 (AP)—Charlie Justice and Doak Walker will make their professional football debut next month in a game that may be the only meeting between the two All-America greats.

Justice, North Carolina tailback who won All-America honors twice, says he'll be playing his last football game when he captains an All-Star team of college seniors from the south and southeast in the Senior bowl here Jan. 7.

Walker, Southern Methodist quarterback who made All-America three times, will captain the "Yankee" team in the Senior bowl. It will include players from all sections outside the south-southeast.

Clayton Tonnemaker of Minnesota, named All-America center this season, is lined up for the "Yankees" in the Senior bowl. Walker also will have his SMU teammates back. Dick McKissack and guard Jack Halliday on the Senior bowl squad he heads.

Justice won't be lonesome either. Art Weiner and Kenny Powell, the two ends who caught most of Justice's passes through the past four seasons, will join him on the rebel team after North Carolina plays in the Cotton bowl.

Two prominent coaches will coordinate the wealth of talent on each squad. Bo McMillin of the Detroit Lions and Clarence (Biggie) Munn of Michigan State will tutor the "Yankee" team. Steve Owen of the New York Giants and Buddy Parker of the Chicago Cardinals will coach the "Rebels."

Greene Tells Korean Story

Gives Informative Talk To Rotary

An informative and interesting description of Korea, its people, and their efforts to attain independence with the assistance of the United States, was given by John Greene, cashier of the First National Bank of Escanaba, to the Escanaba Rotary club yesterday noon.

With the U. S. military government in charge of property custody and directed the transfer of Japanese property into Korean hands. He left Korea in December, 1948, his phase of the work completed.

Other business before the Rotary club yesterday noon was the induction of Francis Boyce as a member of the organization.

In his talk to the club Greene gave historical background for the plight of Korea and the efforts of the United States to aid Koreans toward independence. With over 4,000 years history as a kingdom, Korea was taken over and occupied by the Japanese in 1909, despite the protests of other nations.

Lack Technicians
Despite this long occupation, the Koreans were never Japanese, Greene said. The Japanese owned and operated practically all of the industries in Korea and the government was controlled by Japan at the time World War II began.

Under the Yalta agreement, in which the U. S. was to meet Russia "half way", Korea became a battleground for warring ideologies, with North Korea controlled by the Communists and South Korea working toward rehabilitation and independence under U. S. advisors. "Meeting the Russians half-way has been no more successful in Korea than it is in Berlin," Greene said.

Withdrawal of 700,000 Japanese from Korea left the country without technically trained or experienced men to operate industries or the government, except for the handful of Americans. "Moving the Japanese out assisted in the creation of chaos," Greene said. Conferences with the Russians delayed rehabilitation efforts and gave the Communists an opportunity to establish their own puppet government in North Korea ahead of the Korean government in the south.

Government Formed
Unification never had a chance, Greene believes. Despite the division of the country and its people, the U. S. program of rehabilitation went forward and in May, 1947, ninety per cent of the citizens of South Korea voted in a free election to elect an assembly.

In Sept., 1947, the Korean government was organized and for the first time in nearly a half-century Koreans were in positions of responsibility. With the assistance of the United States (including about $100,000,000 in gifts, largely foodstuffs and clothing) South Korea had attained a precarious independence.

Greene's work in the transfer of property formerly held by the Japanese was completed in Nov., 1948, and he returned to the United States the following month.

Lose Pounds With Sunday Newspaper

By HAL BOYLE

New York (AP)—If you are trying to lose weight, don't overlook reading a good big Sunday newspaper.

This is the cheapest and best form of exercise available to modern man.

It not only tones your mind, it takes away sloppiness and replaces it with firm, solid muscle.

Lifting barbells can be dangerous. If one slips and falls it can bury your toes an inch deep in the flooring. Tennis, handball, and bowling are sometimes too strenuous for the middle-age frame. And they are forms of exercise that require taking a journey.

For the home-loving man who wants to keep fit, however, nothing beats reading a king-size Sunday newspaper. It'll tune you up like a tiger, and you'll wake up Monday morning refreshed and eager for the week's work.

I learned this lesson some 13 years ago. I was feeling weak and run-down. Anything that required energy was anathema.

It chanced that I complained of this lassitude to an elderly acquaintance I met in the New York public library.

"Feel my muscles," he said, curling his arm. I did. They were like coiled springs.

"Now feel my stomach." It was like a brick wall.

"How do you keep in such fine shape at your age?" I inquired.

"Very simple. I read all the Sunday newspapers. That is the finest kind of workout for the muscles."

Then he gave a list of exercises and cautioned:

"Don't overdo it by trying to lift the paper all at once."

This was unnecessary advice. When I tried to bring in the newspapers the following Sunday, I found I couldn't budge them. I tied a rope around them and dragged them in—with the help of my wife.

At first I could only lift one section at a time. As my biceps thickened I found I could muscle a tabloid paper overhead with one hand. Still working with tabloids I started building up my stomach muscles. My wife, Frances, would pile section after section on my abdomen. At the end of a year I could lie there and take the whole weight of a new Sunday New York Times on my tensed stomach—and still breathe.

Big Test Passed
Two years after I began this systematic exercise I had slimmed down 20 pounds and could hold a Sunday newspaper overhead in each hand. After that I tapered off.

But whenever I found my abdomen getting slack I could quickly renew my strength by a careful workout with the Sabbath press. Now I usually take these exercises only about twice a year.

The big test is on the Christmas season editions. I passed it this year with flying colors. I started at 9 a. m., weighing 195 pounds on the bathroom scales.

For an hour I loosened up with body press lifts of the Daily News and the New York Mirror, both tabloids. Then I stretched out on the floor and told Frances:

"Pile 'em on."

She dropped the tabloids on my taut stomach. Then she added the New York Herald Tribune. Next, with the help of a neighbor, she managed to lift the 324-page New York Times and put it on. My stomach sagged toward my back-bone, but I cried:

"Now the Manhattan Telephone directory."

"I'm afraid," she murmured. "It might kill you."

"No, go ahead," I cried through clenched teeth.

She put on the directory. I held the whole mass for a moment, then rolled aside to keep from being crushed as it toppled over. When I got up and stepped on the bathroom scales I weighed 190—five pounds less.

You, too, can be panther strong by following this regimen with the Sunday newspapers. But don't exercise before an open window. They may blow apart and strangle you.

Gradstone—Mrs. Zelia B. Kemmer, 39, of 36 Pine Grove, Chicago, died yesterday afternoon in Presbyterian hospital. She had been ill for one year.

Mrs. Kemmer was born in Texarkana, Tex., November 18, 1910, and was employed in restaurant work in Chicago.

She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Young of 1220 Delta avenue, one daughter, Zelia Mary, two sons, Wallace, Jr., who is in Alaska, and Jackie, of Milwaukee; the following half brothers, William, Ed, Lawrence, LeRoy, Leslie and Lloyd Young, and one half sister, Mrs. Lorraine Russell, all of Gladstone.

The body will be brought here to the Skradski funeral home. Arrangements for the services are incomplete.

More than half the main lines of American railroads are now built of rails weighing more than 100 pounds per yard.

Debate Tourney Scheduled Here

100 Upper Michigan Students Expected

Approximately 100 Upper Michigan high school students will come to Escanaba Saturday, Dec. 10 to participate in the second practice debate tourney of the season.

Students from 13 Upper Michigan high schools will debate the question of electing the president of the United States by a direct vote of the people. Escanaba students will be hosts for the tourney, and will be assisted by members of the girls Horizon club, who will be the timekeepers.

Seven faculty members of Northern Michigan College of Education in Marquette will judge the rounds. Reserve debates will be judged by a panel of Escanabans.

Escanaba high school will also make arrangements for a dinner for all participants. Registration will be held at the Senior high school from 8:15 to 8:45 a. m.

The first practice tourney was held last month in Iron Mountain. The final debates are scheduled at NMCE, Marquette, sometime in January.

Sportsmen's Club Plan Party Here

The U. P. Sportsmen's club is sponsoring a dance as a benefit for their winter activities fund, on Wednesday night.

Their first annual winter frolic will be held at the Terrace Gardens, with Ernest Tomassoni furnishing music for dancing, from 9:30 to 1:30.

Advance sales of tickets indicate a capacity crowd.

Lansing Daily Will Build New Plant At Cost Of $1,300,000

Lansing, Mich., (AP)—Construction of a new $1,300,000 newspaper plant for the Lansing State Journal is expected to start in about two weeks, Paul A. Martin, publisher, announced Monday.

Ground will be broken for the new and modern two-story building as soon as the excavation subcontract is let, Martin said. The building is expected to be completed in about a year.

The general contract has been awarded to Algot B. Larson, Inc., of Chicago, by the Federated Publications, Inc., owners of the State Journal, the Grand Rapids Herald and Battle Creek Enquirer-News. Architects are Morton L. Pereira and associates of Chicago.

Planning its first move in 37 years, the State Journal expects to shift operations to its new site at the corner of South Grand and Lenawee avenues early in 1951.

The new plant will be 155 by 155 feet, of concrete and steel faced with Minnesota granite and Indiana Limestone.

The Journal plans to increase its typesetting equipment and to install a new press.

JHS Students Will Present Play Friday

Nine junior high school students, coached by James Luckman, English teacher, will present a one-act comedy for a student assembly in William W. Oliver auditorium Friday morning.

The one-act play, "Elmer," written by Beatrice Humiston McNeil, will be enacted by Gerald Nichol, as Elmer; Beth Parker, as Susan; Carol Murray, as Janie; Ann Aronson, as Jeanie; Claire Schafer, as Mrs. Collier; Ruth Jensen, as Miss Pinney; Mary Jo Decker, as Fanny Belle; Dan LaVelle, as Hubert, and David Erickson, as Russ.

Donna Knudson and Kathryn Walch are in charge of properties and costumes.
